Title	Transnational Governance in post-pandemic Europe
Brief description of the research project	The scholarship will mainly be aimed at forming a profile of a scholar capable of tackling the problems and processes of recovery, resilience, ecological transition and sustainability policies in the context of post-pandemic recovery in Europe, with attention to multi-level processes. The research project will be able to examine specific policies, as well as link the effects of the pandemic crisis with other crises (war, environment, energy, economy). It will be open to combine different political and sociological approaches and different methodologies. The use of comparative research designs, even if well justified with non-European Union countries and regions, is particularly indicated. The scholarship aims to train professionals with rigorous analytical skills capable of working, even within interdisciplinary teams, to resolve current governance challenges. This line of training is fully integrated with the aims and spirit of the PNRR.
