READING BUTLER IN FLORENCE

Scuola Normale Superiore
Pollaiuolo room | 10.30 – 12.30
Palazzo Strozzi | Firenze
and on-line

Study/discussion seminars with prior reading of the text
Who's Afraid of Gender?

The two seminars will engage with selected chapters from Judith Butler's book Who's Afraid of Gender? (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 2024) through collective reading and discussion. At a time of growing anti-gender mobilizations and gender backlash across different political and social contexts, Butler's work offers critical tools for understanding the narratives, anxieties, and power dynamics that shape contemporary debates around gender.

You must register by writing to the group email genderandpolitics@sns.it 25 seats is the maximum capacity of the room
